(A) “Cookie” means a text file:

(1) that is placed on a computer by:

(a) an interactive computer service;
(b) an Internet website; or
(c) a third party acting on behalf of:

(i) an interactive computer service; or
(ii) an Internet website; and

(2) the function of which is to record information that can be read or recognized when the user of the computer later accesses a particular:

(a) Internet website;
(b) online location; or
(c) online service.

(B) “Division” means the state [Division of Consumer Protection] in the state [Department of Commerce].

(C) “Interactive computer service” means any information service, system, or access software provider that provides or enables computer access by multiple users to a computer server, including:

(1) an Internet or online service provider; or
(2) a service or system providing access to the Internet, including a system operated by a library or educational institution.

(D) “Internet” is as defined in the Internet Tax Freedom Act, Pub. L. No. 105-277.

(E) “Internet or online service provider” means an interactive computer service that provides software or other material that enables a person to:

(1) transmit, receive, display, forward, cache, search, subset, organize, reorganize, or translate content;
(2) select or analyze content; or
(3) allow or disallow content.

(F) “Mark” means a registered trademark, registered service mark, or registered domain name in an Internet website address that is owned, licensed, or lawfully used by a person doing business in this state.
(G) (1) “Spyware” means software on the computer of a user who resides in this state that:
   (a) collects information about an Internet website at the time the Internet website is being viewed in this state, unless the Internet website is the Internet website of the person who provides the software; and
   (b) uses the information described in subsection (G)(1)(a) contemporaneously to display pop-up advertising on the computer.

(2) "Spyware" does not include:
   (a) an Internet website;
   (b) a service operated by an Internet or online service provider accessed by a user;
   (c) software designed and installed primarily to:
       (i) prevent, diagnose, or resolve technical difficulties;
       (ii) detect or prevent fraudulent activities; or
       (iii) protect the security of the user’s computer from unauthorized access or alteration;
   (d) software or data that reports information to an Internet website previously stored by the Internet website on the user’s computer, including cookies;
   (e) software that provides the user with the capability to search the Internet; or
   (f) software installed with the consent of a user whose primary purpose is to prevent access to certain Internet content.

(H) “Pop-up advertising” means material:
   (1) offering for sale or advertising the availability or quality of a commercial property, good, or service; and
   (2) that is displayed:
       (a) separate from an Internet website;
       (b) as a result of a user accessing an Internet website;
       (c) in a manner that covers paid advertising or other content on an Internet website in a way that interferes with the user’s ability to view the advertising or other content that the user attempted to originally access; and
       (d) without the authority of the operator of the Internet website.

(I) “User” means the owner or authorized user of a computer.

Section 3. [Prohibited Conduct.]

(A) A person may not display a pop-up advertisement by means of spyware if the pop-up advertisement:
   (1) is displayed in response to a specific mark; or
   (2) is displayed in response to a specific Internet website address;
   (3) constitutes infringement of a registered trademark under federal or state law; and
   (4) is purchased or acquired by a person other than:
       (a) the mark owner;
       (b) a licensee of the mark;
       (c) an authorized agent of the owner of the mark;
       (d) an authorized user of the mark;
       (e) a person advertising the lawful sale, lease, or transfer of products bearing the mark through a secondary marketplace for the sale of goods or services; or
(vi) a person engaged in a fair or otherwise permissible use of a trademark or service mark under applicable trademark law.

(B) (1) A person using spyware to display a pop-up advertisement under Subsection (A) is not guilty of violating this Act if:
   (a) the person requests information about the user’s state of residence before sending the spyware or displaying a pop-up advertisement to the user after [May 2, 2005]; and
   (b) the user indicates a residence outside this state.

(C) A person purchasing or acquiring advertising is not guilty of violating this Act if the person reasonably determines that the person delivering a pop-up advertisement by use of spyware under Subsection (A) has complied with Subsection (B)(1).

(D) A person requesting information about a user’s state of residence under Subsection (B)(1) may not prompt, ask, or otherwise encourage a user to indicate a residence outside this state.

(E) No action may be brought under this Act, for the use of a mark or Internet website address that constitutes a fair or otherwise permissible use of the mark or Internet website address under federal or state law.

Section 4. [Permissive Removal of Potentially Harmful Software.]

(A) If a provider of computer software or an interactive computer service provides prior notice to a user with whom the provider has an established business relationship, that provider is not liable under the law of this state, or a political subdivision of this state, for identifying, removing, or disabling, preventing installation of a program on the user’s computer that is used to, or that the provider reasonably or in good faith believes will likely be used to:
   (1) violate a provision of this Act; or
   (2) to engage in surreptitious collection of information concerning the user’s use of the computer without the consent of the owner of the computer, except that no notice is required for:
      (a) preventing the installation of a program; or
      (b) in the case of an enterprise network, removing, disabling, or preventing the installation of a program on the computer of an employee.

Section 5. [Private Action.]

(A) An action for a violation of this Act may be brought by
   (1) the [attorney general]; or
   (2) a mark owner who:
      (a) does business in this state; and
      (b) is directly and adversely affected by a violation of this Act.

(B) In an action under Subsection (A), a person may:
   (1) obtain an injunction against committing any further violation of this chapter; and
   (2) subject to Subsection (3), recover the greater of:
      (a) actual damages; or
      (b) up to [[$500]] for each occurrence resulting in the display of an advertisement prohibited by this Act.

(C) In an action under Subsection (A), a court may:
   (1) increase the damages up to [three times] the damages allowed by Subsection (B)(2)(b) if the court finds that the defendant willfully or knowingly violated this Act; and
   (2) award costs and reasonable attorney fees to a prevailing party.
(D) For purposes of this section, a separate violation occurs for each individual occurrence that results in the display of an advertisement described in this Act.

(E) An action may be brought against a person who purchases or acquires advertising described in this Act if:

(1) the person against whom the action is brought receives actual notice from a mark owner of an alleged violation;

(2) the notice required contains a detailed explanation of the alleged violation; and

(3) the person against whom the action is brought fails to take reasonable steps to stop the violation.

(F) (1) At the time of commencement of an action for a violation of this Act, the person filing the action shall serve a copy of any summons and complaint upon any person against whom an action is brought.

(2) A person against whom an action may be brought under this Act may intervene in an action for a violation in accordance with [insert citation] or Rule 24(c) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

Section 6. [Limitations on Actions.]

(A) A person may not bring an action for a violation of this Act against a person other than:

(1) a person who displays a pop-up advertisement by means of spyware in violation of this Act; or

(2) a person who purchases or acquires an advertisement in violation of this Act.

(B) A person may not bring a class action under this Act.

(C) This Act does not preclude any person accused of violating this Act from asserting any fair use or other defense that is available to people alleged to have engaged in trademark infringement.
